ABOUT YOUR TRAINER:

20 YEARS OF WORKING WITH
PROFESSIONAL REAL ESTATE
COMPANIES AND SALES ASSOCIATES

In 1994 John Bayes, Jim Henagar and I created Comstock Net Services Inc. in Atlanta, GA. The first online marketing websites for the Real Estate industry. I remember being laughed at by real estate companies, that the internet was a playground and not for business. Even had a well known Georgia Senator who owned a large private real estate company (Northside Realty) in Atlanta, kicked us out of his office in the early days, saying "the world wide web is a passing thing".

Our systems and designs plus our lead development tools were on the forefront of most online marketing even as of today. We learned the real estate business needs of the brokers and sales associates. Our products, tools and relationships were built from that foundation.

It was the most exciting time of my life to experience and live the fast paced world of the growth of the internet. It was a time of "build it and they will come" and your imagination took you to places never before offered. We truly lived the "world wide web" dream up until 2001. When I left that year, our platform had over 22,000 agents and 500 offices in North America (US and Canada).

Since 2001 my career has guided me to many wonderful and exciting companies and people within the real estate industry. Helping their business, selling franchises, recruiting and retaining for growth, working with the sales associates by nurturing their ideas while providing program and support tools to increase consumer engagement and revenue streams for broker owners plus sales associates based on their business and personal needs.
